The City of Baenes Ayres.

Buenos Ayres is described by a corespondent of the London Timer as a city having decidedly more stir and bustle, more wealth in the shops, more atyle and grandeur in some of its build-ings—in short, higher pretensions to the rank of a great capital than either Montevideo, Lima, Santiago, or perhaps any city in South America except Rio Janeiro. Though new looking, Buenos Ayres is an old city, which has many of the inconveniences without any of the charms of quaintness and originality which age gives to so many old eities in Europe. As a seat of government and a center of social life, it has been for more than three centuries the favorite residence of great and wealthy land owners. There is hardly a wide street in the town; the largest, Calle de Rivadaria, is a narrow thoroughfare, with sidewalks scarcely wide enough for two persons to walk side by side The city can hardly be called picturesque, or its chief public buildings impressive. Neither the cathedral, shaped like a massive Grecian temple, with a portice borne by twelve huge brick columns, nor the government house, nor the town hall, all Spanish structures, is remarkable. The private residences, however, both city and country, are far more striking. Some of them are almost palatial, being built in the modern Italian style, with grand balconies and terraces and lofty towers. Others are one story cottages, with their ground floor apartments inclosing the court or patro with flowers and shrubbery, and in some cases a fountain in the middle The city has a population of about 250,-000 There is a large foreign element which is constantly increasing, and for eigners take a prominent part in the business and industrial occupations of the city. Italians constitute a greater part of the manigrants They are chiefly employed as mesons, house builders, boatmen, and on railroads. Many of them settle as agricultural colonists in the various parts of the country Germans, Swiss, Spaniards, Eag lish, French and Russians are also largely represented among the immi-grants. Most of the English are em ployed on large estates as cattle breeders and sheep tarmers. The builders of railroads and tramways are chiefly English and North Americans, while the French become cooks and hotel keepers. Buenos Ayres is situated on an estuary of the Plats, about 120 miles from Montevideo, which is also on an estuary of the same river. Steamers ply between the two cities every night. A great drawback to Buenes Ayres 18 lack of a good harbor. Large steamers, like those of the Royal Mail and Pacific Companies, have to anchor ten or twelve miles from the city, while even smaller boats cannot go up to the cussungers and freight are often landel in nigh wheel carts, drawn by horses, but, while this obstacle retards the growth of its foreign commerce, Buenos Ayres has immense resources in its boundless territory in the rear.

* JAMES C LAKE, Chairman,

TAUMBULL'S conundrum: "Why should we elect Gen. Hancock president?" We give it up.

Ir makes them nervous to mention the word "copperhead," or to refer to the record of 1864. But then it's one of the "traditions of the Democratic party," to which they "pledge themselves anew."

CANNON AT MONTICELLO.

The first gap of the campaign at Mentische, was fired off last night, and it was none of your toy pistols, either, but a veritable Cannon. The attendance was very large, the court house interest was not to exceed five per being packed full of enthusiastic people. Albert Emerson, Esq , presided, and introduced Mr. Cannon, who, as one that Congress, dated December 22, 1859, was present informs us, never made used the following language: was present informs us, never made a better speech. He was frequenty interrupted by the wildest applause, and his effort made a fine impression Piatt will give a good account of herself if November.

Soun days ago we took occasion to observa that the Democrats are running this campaign on Know Nothing principles, and to-day we have a fresh exemplification of the fact. The Review this morning, in trying to get out from under the burden it recklessly assumed when it announced, without qualification, that Col. Henry B. Rays, of Pittsburg, had "declared for Hancock," gots off the sterotyped excuse that it didn't know. It also affects to have some doubt as to the authenticity. of Col. Hays denial of the story, and says his "reported conversion to demooracy may not prove true." Prob ably this card from Col. Hays may convince the editor of the Democratic sheet that there is some little foundstion for the decial:

I most hoursly endorse James A. Garfield as the nominee of the Republican party. I think he is the best and strongest man that could have been chosen in der the circumstances. I intend render dering him all the support in my power to insure his election, and when the day comes for voting I shall add one to his majority. I thank my Democratic friends for this opportunity to express my scatt-ment Hanny B Mays

This note the Review will doubtless publish, coming as it does from an old friend of the editor, whom the latter has misrepresented in his paper. But then the editor didn't know, you know.

DEMOCRATIC MISMANAGEMENT.

Record of the Last Administration of the Government Pinances by the Democrats—A Series of Disastrous Binnders

Washington Special to New York Tribuns. The revolution in trade and comnerce which occurred in the year 1857 disastrously affected the revenues of the treasury would continue to pay gold and cont., $77,000 at 92 per cent., $1,027, silver only, was forced really to the husilver only, was forced really to the humiliating necessity of asking authority $1,367,000 at 103 per cent., $1,432, to issue paper money.

The Secretary of the Treasury informed Congress in his report of Desember 8, 1857, that although there was a belance on hand at the close of the fiscal year of $17,710,114.27, yet such was the falling off in the revenues from customs that it was necessary to provide the tressury with some additional means of meeting the demands upon it, and that unless relief was speedily afforded there was great danger that the available funds might be exhausted. He therefore asked authority to issue $20,000,000 in treasury notes. A bill for this purpose was introduced, and in the debates which followed it was truly said that the closing hours of the XXXIVth Congress had been consumed in efforts to deplete an overflowing treasury, while the early days of the XXXV Congress were devoted to efforts to fill an empty one. Only a short time before the secretary had asked Congress to reduce the accumulating coin on hand by a revision of the revenue laws, and now he is asking to fill its empty coffers by the issue of paper money. Instead of proposing a reduction of expenditures un increase was recommended.

The Secretary of the Treasury asked mereased expenditures to collect the diminishing revenue, while the Secretary of War wanted permission to raise four or five additional regiments at an additional expense of lour or five mal lions of dollars—though the whole business of the country was paralyzed its commerce almost destroyed, its industrial clasess living in enforced idleness, with willing hands imploring in vain the privilege of labor, and the government bankrupt, asking authority to fill its coffers by the issue of paper money. A bill authorizing the issue of $20,000,000 treasury notes was consequently passed, but a prediction was made that this amount would be largely insufficient, and that by the end of the year the treasury would be many milions in debt, and that prediction was soon verified.

In May, 1858, the Secretary of the Treasury was compelled to inform Congress of his difficulties, that owing to the appropriations having been increased by legislation nearly $10,000,000 over the estimates, and the revenue from customs having fallen below the estibill to authorize a loan not exceeding $15,000,000 was reported to the House May 26, 1858. This bill was subsequently amended, the amount being increased by the Senate to $20,000,000, and became a law June 14, 1858. The cent., and the loan was made redeemable at any time after fifteen years. Secretary Cobb, in his annual report to

June next and it will be necessary for Congress to extend the law for that purpose another period."

Congress appears to have differed with the Secretary as to the propriety of reisening the notes; for, instead of giving anthority to do so, a bill providing for their redemption by means of a loan was introduced, and passing both houses almost without debate was apa loan of $21,000,000, with interest at not exceeding six per cent, redeemable in not less than ten or more than twen-

The failure to realize the whole amount authorized was caused by the political troubles that culminated in the late war of the rebellion. Bigin were invited for $10,000,000 on September 8, 1860, and the whole smoont offered was speedily taken. A commercial crisis ensued, during which a portion of the bidders forfeited their deposits, and the loan was withdrawn from the market. The amount finally secured was only $7022,000. As a result of this failure, authority for a further issue of treasury notes was asked for by Scoretary Cobb. In his years of democratic domination. That

"To meet the remaining outstanding treasury notes and interest therein there is yet to be negotiated $11,060. 000 of the loan authorized by the act of June 22, 1860. The statement just made of the difficulties attending the payment for the stock already sold, in connection with the fact that capitalists in the present condition of the country seem unwilling to invest in Who have been unable to attend to their United States stock at par, renders it duties owing to periodical sicknesses, almost certain that this remaining $11, have found Warner's Safe Kidney and 000,000 cannot now be negotiated upon Liver Cure a real "friend in need." demption of the treasury notes which it might become necessary to issue." The rate of interest actually paid on the notes issued under this not has been the subject of frequent dispute, and the facts, as given in an official form, are as

Under the act of December 17, 1860 (12 statutes, 121), treasury notes were issued, redeemable at the expiration of one year from date, bearing interest as tollows: $70,200 at 7 per cent., $5,000 disastrously affected the revenues of the government as it did the incomes of the people, and the administration which had just declared that amid such wide-bad just declared that amid such wide-bad financial wreck and ruin the 500 at 10 per cent., $266,000 at 101 700 at 11 per cent., $4,849,000 at 12 per cent., making a total of $1,010,900. Additional offers were received ranging from 15 to 36 per cent., which were refused.

In January, 1861, the secretary, in order to relieve the tressury from its. embarrassments, was forced to ask congress for authority to obtain at loan without restriction as to the price of the bonds. This money was needed, not to meet bonds falling due, or to pay the expenses of war, but was asked for in a time of profound peace, to meet the current expenses of the government, Never before, since the year 1789, when a small sum was borrowed to pay salaries, etc., under the new government, had a loan been asked to meet ordinary expenditures. So low had the credit of the government fallen at that time that Secretary Dix suggested to congress, as a financial resource, that the several states be asked, as security for the repayment of any money the government might find it necessary to borrow, to pledge the deposits received by them from the government under the act for the distribution of the surplus revenues in 1836, the secretary believing that a loan contracted on such a basis of security, superadding to the plighted faith of the United States that of the individual states, could hardly fail to be acceptable to capitalists.

A bill was introduced February 3. 1861, authorizing a loan of $25,000,000, to bear interest not to exceed six per cent., and to be redeemed in not less than ten or more than twenty years. The bill became a law February 8, 1861, after earnest debates, in which, howev er, no opposition was manifested to the bill as a whole, but simply to details, both parties, agreeing that a loan was absolutely necessary. Bonds to the amount of $18,415,000 were sold under the authority of this act at an aggregate discount of $89.03 per $100. Sec retary Cobb, in his report before re ferred to. says:

"The estimated balance that will be in the treasury on June 30, 1861, is only $3,430,196.61, and leaves no margin for additional appropriations. It, thereforc, the appropriations should exceed the estimates, or wongroud should deter-mine to provide within this period for the payment of any portion of the public debt, it will become necessary to mate about an equal amount, means to make provision for anth contingencies.

The idea of increasing the public debt. The idea of increasing the public debt to meet the ordinary expenses of the government should not be entertained for a moment. If additional demands are created upon the freasury by the legislation of the present congress, provision must be made to meet them by such sucresse of tariff duties as may be required for that purpose,"

In addition to this increase of the public debt, there was a rapid degrease in the amount of cash in the treasury during the years mentioned. It was teen millions of revenue collected at home to pay a bill of one hundred millions abroad. The debate on the bill took a very wide range, including the subjects of the tariff and of protection to American industry, and often branching off to the state of the Union and the political troubles which brought on the war of the rebellion; but the bill fuiled to pass both Houses at that seesion. It was taken up at the next meeting of congress, and became a law

THE recent investigation of election democratic frauds in New York by Wallace's Investigating Committee recalls some of Wallace's own practices in Pennsylvania at that game. A writer in the Philadelphia North American relates the history of the election frauds standing treasury notes, to authorize a loan, and to regulate and fix the duties Senator Wallace. It saves istration had practically illustrated the sentiment by steadily increasing the debt to meet these expenses during every year that it had been in power. This was shown by the following table:

Public debt July 1, 1857 ... $22,00,289 as 46,60,377 60 Public debt July 1, 1859 ... $4,60,377 60 Public debt July 1, 1859 ... $4,60,377 60 Public debt July 1, 1859 ... $4,60,377 60 as 3,751,699 38 and 1,251 as 3,751,699 38 as 3,751,699 3 naturalization were colored with coffee to give them the appearance of age. He also testified that he voted at the said election for Shugart, and that he had not resided a year in the United States. He during the years mentioned, It was furthermore charged that this had taken place under the tariff that practically discriminated against our own people, compelling us for every fourteen or fifture. minutes after he got off the cars, and up to the present day his murderer has never been arrested. Also a Catholic priest, a resident of Clearfield, the home of Senator resident of Clearfield, the home of Senator Wallace, swore before the said committee that the money that paid the board bills for that gang of voters came from a bank in Clearfield in which Senator Wal. lace was interested. The records in this case at Harrisburg will establish the truth of these statements, and "Coffeepot Wallace knows also the truth where-of I affirm. And he is for Hancock.

The writer further calls the attention of this statesman, who has been christened "Coffeepot" Wallace, on account of his complicity with the above frauds, to the further fact that he was Chairreport of December 4, 1860, he says: party had by its mismanagement utterly man of the democratic sub-commit"To meet the remaining outstanding destroyed the public credit and brought tee of the Democratic Senate of the tee of the Democratic Senate of the about a state of affairs which could no United States that passed the seven but at midnight appeared to be sleeplonger be borne. Marshal Bager Seriously Hurt. In our issue of yesterday we gave the asticulars of the highway robbery of Daniels, by which he lost $5.00 in watch. At short noon the officers got enough points together to work on, and Marshal Baker and Deputy Howes, spanied by Janjor Brewer, started a spanier for the accused parties. officer's beer garden two of the that the of them and started up town with him, while Hewes and Brewer remained behind to look for the other robber. Coming up the Central road the marshal's prisoner broke away from him and ran down an embankment. The marshal took after him, calling to the man to halt, but he kept on going. Baker then pulled out his revolver and fired, the ball cutting lato the ground between the robber's legs. Just as he fired Baker's foot got caught in a lot of brush, and he fell heavily to the ground, falling headlong on his left shoulder: but nevertheless the valuant marshal regained his feet and pulled another head on the robber, and called to him to stop or he would blow his brains out. The robber looked back, saw the revolver pointed directly at him, and he stopped antil the marshal came up to him, when, by the assistance of a couple of colored men, he was placed in jail without fur ther trouble. The prisoner safe, the marshal went to Dr. Cenoweth's, when it was found that his left shoulder was dislocated by the fall and that his left collar bone was broken. The injuries were promptly attended to, but Mr. Baker will have to carry his arm in a sling for many weeks is a very serious hurt, but the marshal has the compolation of knowing that he captured his man.

GOY. CULLOWS SPRINGE. Cight—In Able Address by the Bext? ?

The first of a series of Republican rallies to be held in Decatur this animmer and fall, under the apprices of the Garfield and Arthur Club, was held at the court house last night. The Decatur band paraded the streets, playing several entityening selections in excellent style, and at eight o'clock, notwithstanding the many other attractions in the city, every available seat in the circuit court room was occupied by a good representation of stalwarts of city and country, many of whom had to stand because there were no seats to be had. There was also a large number of ladies present, who seemed to enjoy the address as much as the "lords of creation." THE INTRODUCTION

The meeting was called to order by W. C. Johns, Esq., president of the club, and in a neat eugolistic speech, introduced the distinguished speaker of the evening, the audience greeting him with three rousing cheers as he appeared on the gracefully bowed his thanks and proceedad to deliver one of the most telling, solid and aubstantial speeches ever heard in Decatur, full of humor and hard facts not at all palatable to the demograts, mossbacks, copperheads, or whatever other name they are known by, north and south. The governor wanted it understood that he commenced his campaign of 1880 in Decatur, this being the first meeting at which he was the principal speaker-a meeting arranged for him. He would do his share of speech-making this fall, but at the same time he would faithfully attend to his duties as the chief executive of the state, guarding and watching the interests of the people.

the governor said, was one of the greatest subjects with which the people have to deal. It is the science of government and a matter in which all citizens should have a personal interest; a despotic gov ernment is one of the worst kind, one in which the people have no voice at all; next an oligarchy, where a few control, and the balance have no voice at all in public affairs; but in a popular government like ours, which we style "of the people, for the people and by the people,' ail, even the humblest man, has as much to say as his neighbor. The gentleman declared that he was a republican and believed that republicanism ought to prevail, because it is in the interest of the people of the country that it should, and he thought he could give many good reasons why he thought this way. The republicans ought to be retained in control of the affairs of this great country because, principally, there is no other known party fit to control them. The party misnamed "democratic," is the one we have to deal with-nothing in the others to amount to anything. There was nothing in the history of the parties of the country that could be offered as a good reason why the Republican party should be turned out and the democratic party pat in. He didn't think the democrats ever should be placed in power again. They are in bad shape and in bad company. [Applause.] The record of that party is exceedingly bad, as everybody knows; but the speaker said he didn't come to Decatur as a politician or republican, but as a citizen, talking in a quiet business way, and would deal only in hard facts. Voting is no trifling matter. The great questions now agitating the public mind are such as should be considered acriously, and the people should calmly and sériousiy make up their minds what should be done-which party should be in capturing the three alleged highwaymen, who are charged with robbing Aleck and took Buchanan's place, and found er box. The sheep traffic be cratic party may be found in the greenback camp, getting up combinations to get into power. The democrats were next opposed to the National Bank system, un til June 23, 1880, when they made a grand flop at Cincinnatifiby nominating English, the biggest National Bank man in the country, for the Vice Presidency. In fac, the democrats were continually opposed to every financial measure natroduced by the republicans Leaving the question of finance, the Governor furned his attention to the difficulties surmounted in securing the passage of the 15th amendment, giving the colored people north and south their constitutional, civil and political rights, and all this was bitterly opposed by the dems; 000—showing an increase of samely so but now they profess to be in favor of per cout. This is the largest same of samely so everything done by the Republicans—alof freedom and progress.

A CONUNDRUM.

The governor was absolutely surprised that his old friend, Trumbuil - "who thinks he is running against me for gov eraor" [great laughter] - should at the very commencement of the democratso campaign in Chicago, propound the connadrum: "Why Shall we Elect Winfield S. Hancock 9" The speaker gave it up. [Laughter.] It's managerable.

Trumball insisted up 1: 1873 that we no superior.

souldn't afford to turn the country over to the democrate, and he was right, for the big end of the controlling element of the democratic party then, as now, lies south of Mason and Dixon's line, all of whom were in open revolt against the Union. [Great applause.] To-day, with the solid South, and the help of two or three Northern States, the democrats hope to win; but they won't. In time of war Douglas said there could be but two parties one for the Union, and the other against it; and that was the state of things 15 and 20 years ago, and the same at the present day.

been reduced fully one third by the management of the Republicans. We promised to pay off the debt, and we are doing it. The Republican party has not been direlect in its duty. It has done wondrously well. The interest on the bonded indebtedness of the country has been regularly reduced. Our 4 per cents are now at 8 o'clock sharp, for the purpose of selecting selling at a premium of 8 per cent. It's grand. It's amazing that we are able to do this after all this country has gone through. More than one-third of our onded indebtedness is now in 4 per cents, and they are selling rapidly at a premium. The Republican party has made but few mistakes. Notparty or individual is infallible. By and by the Democrats got control of the ower house of congress, but instead of doing good, they started out at once and boldly threatened to wipe out the last vestige of the Republican war legislation, and right here the governor read the following extract from Blackburn's speech; "We will not stop until we have wiped out the last vestige of your war-legislation from the statute books; the grage of bettle is thrown down. Take it up if you doubts is damed."

The war closed triumphantly for the North and right, and the public debt, which had grown to be enormous, had

Book said: We, meaning the brigadiers, would starve the government by opposing appropriations, unless the Republicans submitted to the measures suggested by the Demo crats. They say our president is a fraud. Not so. They said he was elected by fraud, and kept up the cry for nearly four years, but denied it all at Cincinnati, when Tilden got left out in the cold. By this act they gave the flat lie to what they had been saying all along.-They commenced to weaken perceptibly when the cipher dispatches were discovered, and now if they over had anything to stand on, it has vanished in thin air.

The governor next turned his attention to the beginning of the National Democratic platform as adopted at Cincinnati, and read "We pledge curselyes anew to the constitu-tional doctrines and traditions of the Democratic party, as illustrated by a long line of Democratic patriots and statesmen." What a and Minnetonka, and visited St Paul and a line! "A long hue of patriots and states-men!" [Laughter.] Whom do they mean? Do they mean Buchanan? Jeff Davis? Dan Voorbees? Pendleton, or Toombe? applause.] Nobody can tell what they mean by such a declaration, and after ridiculing the expression fully, the governor stated that the Democrats, with the hope of getting into power again, had nominated all sorts of men with all possible shades of belief and kinds of history. In '64 they nominated McClellan and Pendleton on a platform declaring the war a fallure. Next, in '68, Seymour and Blair; the Greeley and Brown in '72; and in '76 Triden and Reform; and now comes Hancock and English! What a combination !-- anything to get into office. Here the speaker, referring to Gardeld, spoke the name of the grandest soldier of the age, Grant; but the word had hard ly passed his lips before the audience broke out in cheer after cheer, and the Governor back o cease speaking until the demonstration had in a measure subsided. As between the canidates for the presidency, the speaker said there is no comparison. Hancock was a good soldier, but he is no statesman. There is nothing on record to indicate in the least degree what he is or what he will do-nothing at all. In the history of the country there is no other man, aside from Lincoln, who so nearly represonts the masses of the people as does James A. Garfield. He is thoroughly identified with the masses in every respect, and to-day stands among us the peer almost of any living man We know what he will do; but not so with Hancock, who has always been in the army and knows nothing at all about the science of government The brigadiers will govern Haucock, should be by the merest chance slip into the President's seat. No democratic speaker commences his speech without openly boast given the reins of government. The ing of having a solid south in the start, and speaker then took up the never-to-he- the democrats got it by going into the rebel-Hewes and Brewer yes speaker then took up the best took and then bulkdozing every voter in the ago the hist weekly plant ago the history of the war, when the south who attempted to vote the republican ticket. (Great applause). The purity of the ballot box must be preserved, and this contest will not end until every man, white and black, north and south, is allowed to go to the polis without fearor intimidation, and vote his hon-est sentiments. (Great applause), Honest lections must be had or we fall. No one can charge, and charge truly, that the government n any manner ever passed a law not looking to preserving the purity of the ballot box. The law books will verify this statement.

In concluding his speech the governor spoke of taxation, state and local, and stated that those who growled were generally those who never did anything for themselves or anybody ise, simply standing around and finding fault lilinois is a big state; it's a big commonwealth and is one among the few states of America named in foreign countries. Himos is the home of many illustrious men—Lincoln,Grant Douglas and others. We have a big popula-tion—fully 3,000,000 people. It is a big thing to be a citizen of the United States of Amer. ca, wherever you are or wherever the old flag loats, and what we want to do is to see to it that the stars and stripes are ever and always respected, at bome and abroad,

In conclusion the governor referred to his own administration as the chief executive of the state of Tilino's, and declared that on January 1st, 1861, he would have the pleasure of paying the last dollar on our state indebte ness, and stated that if elected, about which his suditors entertained no doubt whatever. he would "do his level best" to perform the duties of the office faithfully and well.-The governor spoke one hour and forty minutes, and at the close, on motion of President Johns, the audience gave three deaf-day a slip of paper asking him if he would not publish it for the benefit of the public. It was found to be a sim-ple but effective cure for that dog day terror, hydrophobia. The cure, which experience has proved to be infallible, is nothing more than the root of a common weed known as elecampane steeped in milk. Elecampane grows in great profusion along many country roads in this and Renesselaer counties. It has powerful medicinal qualities, and milk is well known to be a specific for many poisons. The manner of administering the antidote will be learned by a perusal of the following history of this sim-

The story, current in the country, povery in the days of Penn, and applied to the Pennsylvania legislature for a grant of $300 for making his scoret public. His offer was treated with contempt, and he resolved that his secret should die with him, but a drunken son knew it, wrote out the recipe, making a number of copies, and tried to sell them at a dollar each, but he only succeeded: in selling two, one of there to the man who made such effective use of it. So well did he catablish the local reputation of his specific that in his neighborhood folks were not afraid of mad dogs. This man never failed to cure or prevent hydrophobia. In one case the spasms had begun before the first dose was given, and the patient recovered. BUCKLENS ARNICA SALVE.

ple and wonderful cure: In Chester county, Pa., lived a German named Joseph Emery, who used to be sent for far and wide, when any one had been bitten by a rabid animal. He went to his patient, carrying something understood to be a root, which he himself dug in the woods. He milked a pint of milk fresh from the cow, put the root into it, boiled it, gave it to the patient fasting; made Lim fast after taking it; gave a second and third dose on alternate days, and never failed in effecting a cure. In some way his secret transpired, and the root was knownto be elecampane.
